We have decided to run this event as Easter is very late this year and after the students return to school after the break there are only 14 school days until the examinations begin in earnest. Therefore, we hope these concentrated revision sessions will give students a much-needed boost to their revision and subsequent chances in the final examinations. Research has proven that one of the most effective final revision techniques is the practice of examination style questions and the revision sessions will therefore have a focus around question technique and practice.

We encourage all students to attend our Easter School as we know it will be beneficial however it is not compulsory to attend, and parents should note that we will not be chasing any absentees.

I will write to you nearer to the Easter holiday as a reminder of these sessions and I will be launching this event with the students during this week.

Yours faithfully

Andy Hartley
